

ABSTRACT

The present invention includes both methods and apparatus for improving defibrillation. In particular, the present invention includes methods and devices for administering a calcium channel blocker and/or calmodulin kinase inhibitor that prevents afterdepolarizations and antiarrhythmic drugs to decrease the threshold shock from a therapeutic threshold shock.

OVERVIEW